The awards received more than 120 entries from established interior designers for the Professional Category. This year's awards also saw the creation of a category for students, with the aim of encouraging youngsters to showcase their creativity. It attracted submissions from 12 secondary schools and institutions of tertiary education here in Hong Kong and from overseas.

Entries were judged against the criteria of Interior Design and Smart Living by James Law, JP, Chairman & CEO & Chief Cybertect of James Law Cybertecture; Antony Chan, Creative Director of CREAM; Joey Ho, PAL Design Group Design Partner; and Ringo Ng, Managing Director of HKT's Consumer Group. Members of the public also took part in the selection process. A total of 16 accolades were awarded to nine interior designers and 11 students at a presentation ceremony in May.
